Shreveport Area Is Threatened By Swollen Red River

More Than 100 Men Work
Desperately to Save
Levee

FLOOD MANY ACRES

Embankment Being Constructed To Save Suburban Sections

SHREVEPORT, May 23.—(AP)—While the swollen Red river was pounding the levees of Shreveport, a gang of more than 100 men were working desperately today in an effort to strengthen the week spots.

Levee officials have given up hope of holding the original levee at the lower end of the river, and are centering their efforts on saving the Dixie Garden and Broadmore suburban sections of the city by constructing a secondary embankment.

If the flood water should break through the original Red river levee and pass the protective levee, an area consisting of 5,000 people would be flooded.

While the levee south of Shreveport is weak, and waters from Caddo, 12-mile bayou, have already overflowed thousands of acres north of the city, Shreveport is not regarded as being endangered, although it is completely surrounded by flood water.

Fast Drop in Ouachita Expected

Camden, Ark., May 23.—Ouachita continued to fall here as the gauge registered 39 feet late Thursday a drop of 1.3 feet in ice crest Wednesday afternoon.

The river dropping slowly, but probably will drop faster within the next day or two. A large area still is inundated and will be until the stream gets below the 30-foot stage. Sun is drying out highways and facilitating work of the highway department. However, only the Camden-Fordyce highway is in good shape. Other highways are open, with the exception of the Camden-Fordyce over pavement. This route is badly damaged. It will be several days before traffic is allowed over it. At present, detours are being used. Most severe damage to outside highways and the farmers, who lost spring and summer crops by having seed washed away an ditch farms eroded. An appeal has been made for help.

DeQueen Youth Is Shot By Brother

Jimmie Waggoner Dies En-Route Hospital Following Accident

DEQUEEN, May 23.—Jimmie Doyle Waggoner, five, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Waggoner of Cove, 40 miles north of DeQueen, was shot fatally by his eight-year-old brother while playing with a .10 gauge shotgun in the family home. The charge took effect in the child's chin and neck at close range. He was brought to the Archer hospital here but died en route.

He is survived by his parents, one brother and one sister. The body was sent to Sylde, Tex., former home of the family, for burial.

P. T. A. Holds

Final Meeting

42 Members Are Present
—Program of "Mother"
Is Given

Ozlesby P. T. A. held their last meeting of the year at the school building yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock with 42 present. Mrs. J. H. White presided over the meeting.

A program on "Mother" was presented by the children. The program was as follows:

Song, "Mother"—By the children.

Reading, "Motherhood"—Edris Gibson.

Song, "Motherhood Beautiful"—The children.

Reading, "Mother's Day"—Anna Ayers.

Splendid yearly reports were made by the various committees. About forty children were examined for medical defects at the school building Tuesday morning as a result of the work of the summer round up committee.

Mrs. John Shiver read a letter from Mrs. Brown, state chairman, stating that our association is standard.

A standing vote of thanks was given Miss Milburn for her splendid work this year. Miss Milburn stressed the need of leveling the school grounds. It was decided to have this done and have grass planted.

Miss Bennett's room won the dollar and Miss Milburn's room the yearly picture. Dixie cups and cakes were served.

Legion Will Meet Here at 8 Tonight

State Commander Gordon
To Speak at National Guard Armory

Legionnaires from Prescott and other Southwest Arkansas points will visit Hope tonight when State Commander R. L. Gordon addresses the local post at a special meeting at 8 o'clock in the National Guard armory.

Commander Gordon is making a tour of state Legion posts, preparatory to the celebration to be held at Little Rock Friday, June 6, when Arkansas legionnaires will honor their own national commander, O. L. Bodenhorn. Large delegations from the state membership of 10,000 are expected to represent every city and county in Arkansas at the Little Rock meeting—and Commander Gordon will discuss the local plans at the meeting tonight.

Post Commander Barney Hamm expects to follow up tonight's meeting with active committee work in behalf of the state meeting June 6. It is believed Hope will send a large delegation to the capital city on that date.

A full attendance of the local membership is asked at tonight's meeting, to receive out-of-town guests, and to discuss organization plans for the state meeting at Little Rock.

Two Killed When Steel Frame Falls

Nine Others Are Injured;
Crash Attracts Tremendous Crowd

NEW YORK, May 23.—(AP)—With a roar heard for blocks, the four-story steel skeleton of a bakery under construction at 51st street and Eleventh avenue, collapsed Thursday and carried two workmen to their deaths. Nine others were injured.

The dead were Otto Helves, 30, and Albert Schmanke, 30, carpenters and roommates. They fell together, clinging to a steel girder. It was reported that the crash of a derrick had preceded the collapse.

The crash attracted a tremendous crowd, and police reserves were called.

Patrolman Joseph Morrissey, patrolling his beat, had stopped for a moment to watch 60 workmen busy four stories above him putting the final touches to the steel framework. Then he saw a girder sway. Before he could cry out, the whole great steel skeleton of the building seemed to fold up on itself.

With a roar and crash, girders buckled and fell, clashing against each other. One was thrown clear across 51st street into the side of a building, where many girls were at work.

For over an hour, police and firemen searched the ruins.

J. C. Robinson, superintendent in charge of construction; Ernest Luke, foreman of steel workers; J. A. Eleen, an engineer of Grantwood, N. J., and other officials connected with the building, were detained by police for questioning.

Red Cross Takes Care of Stamps Flood Work

STAMPS, May 23.—Relief workers in Lafayette county working under supervision of the Lafayette county chapter, American Red Cross, have the flood situation well in hand according to reports from different sections of the county.

Relief committees have been formed in different areas. While several families near Bradley on Red river are homeless they are being cared for by Mrs. Abeland, relief nurse, according to Mrs. Hazel Brown Ricks, chapter chairman.

Market Is Said To Be Cause of Triple Murder and Suicide

Driven Into Desperation,
Crazed Man Shoots 3
and Hangs Self

SHOT WHILE ASLEEP

Tragedy Discovered When Farm Hand Reports
for Work

WILKES BARRE, Penn., May 23.—(AP)—A triple murder and suicide was discovered early today on the farm of Earl L. Snyder, wealthy fruit grower of this section.

Snyder shot his son-in-law, his daughter and his grandson before hanging himself in a garage on his farm.

Heavy losses on the stock market is believed to have driven him into desperation.

Besides Snyder the victims are: Charles Sheppard, age 35, Mrs. Madge Sheppard, age 32, and Earl Sheppard, age 6.

All three of the victims were shot in the head while they were asleep, according to statements made by officers here today.

The triple killing and suicide was discovered this morning when a farm hand reported for work.

Patmos Turns Out For Kiwanis Tour

Good Program Put on at Church Thursday
Night

Residents of the Patmos community filled their church Thursday night to attend a program which was rendered for them by the Hope Kiwanis club. Rev. Tom Middlebrooks extended a royal welcome to the visitors. C. W. Weltman had charge of the program, which featured a speech on "Cooperation between farmer and business man," by John P. Cox; several numbers by the Washington quartet, and several numbers by the Rev. W. P. Harman upon his broom stick violin.

Kiwanian John P. Cox complimented the community upon its splendid church, which was well lighted and printed. He called attention to the fact that the farmers of that section need a complete market for their farm produce, such as Hope offers them. And Hope business and professional men need the support and good will of Patmos community and every other community in the trade territory in order to have the volume of trade which would enable them to offer complete stocks of merchandise at low prices. He told how farmers of Southwest Arkansas are going into a more profitable plan of farming than the former method of depending upon one crop to give themselves and their families the modern conveniences and comforts which add to the sum total of human happiness, on the farm as elsewhere.

The farmers who raise most of their own food and feed are the ones who have or will some day own, farm light and water systems, comfortable, well painted and well furnished homes, good automobiles, and other conveniences of modern day civilization. And more farmers in Southwest Arkansas are going into diversified farming every day, he said.

Kiwanians Ed I. Rephan, C. W. Weltman and Dewey Hendrix also made short talks.

County Judge John L. Wilson, a resident of the Patmos community, tendered his thanks, and the appreciation of the audience for the program which was brought to them by the Kiwanis club. Several citizens asked that the club return again at watermelon time. They promised to tender a watermelon feed upon that occasion.

Arkansas Woman Wins $200 Prize

Award Presented to Hope
Woman in Same Contest Last Year

ATLANTA, Ga., May 23.—One Arkansas woman, Mrs. O. F. Walker, of Paragould, is $200 richer because of having won that amount as one of the cash prizes offered by the Southern Ruralist, Atlanta farm paper, in a "Home Improvement" contest. Last year Mrs. L. Lewallen, Hope, Ark., was awarded a prize of $300 in the same contest while Mrs. J. P. Thomas, Texarkana, was given the fifth prize of $25.

In the contest that has just closed first prize of $500 was awarded to Mrs. J. B. Thompson, Free Union, Va., with second place and $300 going to Mrs. Kemner A. McGee, Liberty, Miss. Other winners include Mrs. W. K. Henry, Silver City, Miss., fourth prize of $100; Mrs. J. J. Williams, Bonifay, Fla., fifth prize of $25; Mrs. Fred Fincher, Crabtree, N. C., sixth prize of $25; Mrs. Emmett B. Blasingame, Colorado, Texas, seventh prize of $25; with the eighth prize of another $25 going to Mrs. W. D. Maupin, Ivy Depot, Va.

Will of Lazarus Is Probated at Camden

CAMDEN, May 23.—The will of Abner Lazarus, Camden wholesale grocer, has been probated. The will was dated March 12, 1925, and there was a codicil dated February 28, 1928. The Camden schools were bequeathed $1,000. Mr. Lazarus was president of the Camden Board of Education for many years and the local high school built in 1924-25 was named in his honor.

The Lazarus home was bequeathed to Mrs. Lazarus, as was the $30,000 life insurance and 25 per cent of the estate. Other legatees were his sister, Mrs. Nora Shyer, Mrs. Estelle Gros and Mrs. Ruth Shyer, his brother, Dan Lazarus, Ralph Benson, Louie V. Benson and Mrs. Ruby Benson Lasher. Dan Lazarus and Ralph Benson were named executors of the estate.

Death Stalks In Flood Area Unless Red Cross Aids Victims

TEXARKANA, May 23.—They were existing there, 25 of them, beneath the scant shelter of a four-room cabin provided, soaked with the water that rushed upon them and carried away all that they had loved and toiled for, and sneared with the dirt in which they had planted the seeds from which their livelihood depended—now swirling aimlessly in the mad, relentless flood waters.

A large part of those lives were saved through work made possible by funds given the Texarkana Red Cross chapter, but that money has dwindled until it has become necessary for Texarkana to donate more—$1000—to provide for the luckless hundreds who became victims of the flood.

Red Cross workers found the group huddled together in a sickly, foul mass of discouraged humanity—hungry, ill and tormented.

They were brought out of the little cabin, following like sheep without a leader, caring little where they were taken. At the refuge camp, the Red Cross supplied them with coffee, meat bread and lard. Clean clothes replaced the wet ones, and uncrowded tents supplanted the shelter.

Soon, they will be administered typhoid serum in the Red Cross effort to halt a feared epidemic, and prob-

Plant Wrecked By Fireworks Blast

One Injured and Four Buildings Destroyed
In Explosion

THOMPSONVILLE, Conn., May 22.—(AP)—Four buildings, two of which were filled with aerial bombs, were destroyed in a series of explosions at the New England Fireworks company located on the Brainard road, two and a half miles east of here, today.

One of the four employees at work was injured. He suffered from shock. The loss was estimated at $16,500. The cause of the first explosion was not immediately determined. It occurred in one of the mills, or sheds about 15 feet square, containing aerial bombs for Fourth of July celebrations, and spread to a second building also packed with bombs. A third mill was blasted from its foundation, while the fourth, the largest, was fired by burning debris.

Thompsonville and the surrounding community were shaken. Several windows were shattered in buildings here. Hartford and Rockville, 15 miles away, also felt the blast.

The plant was situated in a woods. A forest fire was extinguished by the North Thompsonville fire department. The injured man was Ferdinand Iannini, of Springfield, Mass. Four persons, not employees, were killed at the plant in June, 1928.

Snow Falls Over Few Western Cities

DENVER, May 22.—(AP)—Residents of Denver and Leadville, Col., and Cheyenne, Wyo., awoke today to find a heavy snow blanketing the ground on the heels of a warm spell yesterday that sent the mercury to the highest points for the season in several Colorado cities.

Combination of wet snow and rain continue to pelt green trees and freshly cut lawns in Denver today. Pedestrians who yesterday wore straw hats and stopped under awnings to mop brows, today padded along in rubbers and dump overcoats.

Graf Will Leave Tonight For Next Lap of Journey

Refuels at Pernambuco in Flight to Rio De Janeiro

GIVEN CELEBRATION

World-Circling Airship to Reach Next Stop in 20-Hour Flight

PERNAMBUCO, Brazil, May 23.—(AP)—The German dirigible Graf Zeppelin, was refueled here today in preparation for flight to Rio de Janeiro tonight.

An unofficial announcement stated that she would leave here at 6:00 p. m. (E. S. T.) to Rio de Janeiro, and was expected to make the trip to that point in 20 hours or less. The 19 passengers, who rode the giant Graf from Friedrichshafen, to Seville, and then to Pernambuco, spent the day quietly after a noisy welcoming on their arrival yesterday.

PERNAMBUCO, Brazil, May 23.—(AP)—Flying over the route of the Spanish Conquistadores, the dirigible Graf Zeppelin for the first time crossed the equator and made her bow to the southern hemisphere Thursday night.

Garnished with new transatlantic laurels, the world-circling airship reached the southern side of the new world just before the tropic twilight set in.

At 7:10 p. m. (4:10 p. m. C. S. T.), her ropes fluttered to the ground, where they were seized by Brazilian soldiers forming the newly trained ground crew. Amid a furious din from thousands of spectators and a bedlam of horns and sirens, she was snugly tied up by her specially built mooring mast at 8:05 p. m. (5:05 p. m. C. S. T.).

Northern Brazil was delirious with excitement over the Graf's newest achievement Thursday night.

Pernambuco hailed her arrival with furious blasts of sirens and whistles from factories and ships. People swarmed out of their homes to point at the strange shifting shape in the tropic skies. The streets were choked with shouting, gesticulating people.

Over the city and the harbor, about 1000 feet aloft, the majestic silver bullet gracefully sailed. At 6:30 p. m. (4:30 p. m. E. S. T.) she circled over Campo Giquia, the landing field, and then made off southward for a cruise of half an hour.

Presently she returned over the field, with her lights blinking. Down through the dusk, and glided down toward the mooring mast from an altitude of 600 feet.

The crowd in the packed grandstand cheered and waved, while the throng at the outskirts of the field surged forward against the police lines.

Once at the mooring-mast, the dirigible was given over to a crew of mechanics and stevedores, who swarmed about her while the soldiers fought off the crowd.

Bishops to Appear Before Committee

Cannon Is Wired to Answer Questions of Prohibition Activities

WASHINGTON, May 23.—(AP)—Senator Caraway today wired Bishop James Cannon, Jr., to assure his appearance before the senate lobby committee for questioning concerning his prohibition activities.

Cannon is in Dallas, Texas, attending a conference of Methodist Episcopal Church, South. At the same time the committee chairman wrote Bishop McDonald, of New York, president of the federal council of churches for his appearance before the committee next week in reply to a charge of Representative Tinkham, of Massachusetts.

May Get Action On Flood Control

Congressman Parks Sends Message to Hope Chamber of Commerce

The flood on Red river may expedite the enactment of new flood control legislation now before the federal congress, according to a telegram received today by Hope Chamber of Commerce from Congressman Tilman B. Parks.

Congressman Parks wired the following message from Washington: "The committee has reported a flood control bill similar to Robinson's amendment. Conference with Speaker or Longworth today and he agrees the bill might be called up out of order, on account of the Arkansas flood situation. We hope to pass this bill tomorrow and believe it will prove of great help in rebuilding and maintaining the Red river levees. TILMAN B. PARKS."

Denver Police Have Needleitis

DENVER, Colo., May 23.—Denver detectives are suffering from an epidemic of "needleitis."

Detective Jack Wilson was the first victim. While looking over pawned articles, believing some might have been stolen, he sat down on a bundle of clothes and immediately arose.

Police surgeons had difficulty in removing a needle from Wilson's anatomy.

Detective Charles Henderson laughed at Wilson's predicament and told him to be more careful where he sat.

The next day Henderson became victim number two. While walking around in his bare feet at home he stepped on a needle. Again police surgeons came to the rescue.

Bankers Return Home From Meet

Little Rock Convention
Attended by Four
Local Men

Two of Hope's four banking representatives who attended the annual convention of the Arkansas Bankers association at Little Rock Wednesday and Thursday had returned home today. They were: R. T. White, vice-president of the Arkansas Bank & Trust Co., and Lloyd Spencer, cashier of the First National Bank.

R. M. LaGrone, president of the Citizens National Bank, was expected home late today. The fourth member of the local delegation, Roy Anderson, cashier of the Arkansas Bank & Trust Co., remained in Little Rock for the week end, accompanied by his family.

The returning delegates reported an excellent convention meeting. Joe H. Stanley, executive vice-president of the American Exchange Trust company, Little Rock was elected president of the state association.

Among the interesting speeches made at the convention was the statement by Alfred G. Kahn, president of the Union Trust, Little Rock, that "The cost of cashing a check is five and three-quarters cents." He defended the service charge which practically all banks, in big cities and small ones, have installed.

To Present Class Play At City Hall

"Stray Cats" Is Title of Annual Senior Presentation

A will was found last night leaving four and one-half million dollars to Tom, Dick, or Harry Skinner who is married by tonight at 12:00. Dick Skinner didn't find out about the will until 10 o'clock this a. m. and now he has only fourteen hours in which to get a wife. Harry B. S. Skinner has arrived from Skinnerville, Skinner county, and makes a bid for the four million. Tom Skinner, the lawyer cousin doesn't think he is equal to the task of entering the contest.

Most amusing situations are developed as all three cousins make frenzied attempts to win the legacy.

Such is the situation for the Annual Senior Class play, "Stray Cats," which is to be presented tonight at the City Auditorium at 8:15. The play, which is directed by Miss Ernestine Allmon, promises to be one of the best productions ever staged by any high school group of the local high school.

The part of Dick Skinner is played by Willis Plant, who has had experience in high school plays. Playing opposite him is Louise Lee, who plays the part of Kitty Baker, the girl play. Miss Lee scored a hit in the "Stop Thieves" last year. Others who made a success in the play last year, and who promise to be even better this year are Madge Schooley, who takes the part of Lona Brooks, a society girl; Louise Price as Jennie Long, the widow; and Comer Rounton as Tom Skinner, a small town lawyer.

Mozelle Dollar promises to make a hit as Wanda Taylor, the model, and Lee Graves plays the part of the office boy, Billy Jones. William Pool, in his role as Harry Skinner, will bring down the house with his country brogue and custom. Rev. Patterson, the minister, will be played by Ronald Smith.

There will be an added attraction in the two choruses between acts which are directed by Miss Pauline Harris. Admission for the evening performance will be 50c. The place is the City Hall and the time is 8:15 p. m.

WALDO, May 23.—Damages to the highway systems and lateral roads in this vicinity have been repaired following the recent rainstorms. Rural mail service out of Waldo has resumed to all sections of the county.

Special Bargains In Hope Stores on "Trade Day," 28th

Most Important Merchandise
Event This Year

WILL SHOW HEIFER

Merchants Association Interested in Dairy Developments

Many merchandise bargains will be offered by Hope merchants to the residents of her trade territory who are here on the first of a series of Trade Days, Wednesday, May 23.

Special bargains are being quoted by all local stores that are members of the Hope Retail Merchants Association, which comprises 84 firms and individuals.

Spring merchandise, at new low prices, and the latest summer styles will be on view in the local stores Wednesday. It will be the first shopping event of the first half of 1930 in Hope.

Trade day will also mark the showing of a Jersey heifer, which has been imported for this occasion. The Merchants association is endeavoring to help the county dairy movement, and to this end a new heifer will be put on exhibit here for the benefit of farmers in the trade territory.

Last fall the business men of the city managed the importation of a carload of pure-bred bulls, which were subsequently sold to local farmers. Interest has grown in the dairy business here, and the merchants Jersey heifer feature is expected to draw a large crowd next Wednesday.

Vesey Discusses Ethics of Lawyer

Local Attorney Speaks at Rotary Luncheon
Friday Noon

The ethics of a lawyer, which he describes as probably the strictest code observed by any profession of men, were discussed at the Hope Rotary club luncheon in Hotel Barlow today by John Vesey, member of the local bar.

Reviewing the popular misundersstandings of the legal profession, Mr. Vesey went on to say that as a whole lawyers attempt to live up to a high-minded and inflexible rule of conduct. He reminded his audience that it is forbidden to attorneys to do any of the following things:

Advertise for business.
Attempt to take a client away from another lawyer.

Elevate their own interests over the interests of their clients.

To encourage litigation in any way. "The true end of an attorney's business," Mr. Vesey said, "is to win a just, not a non-existent profession."

Mr. Vesey was presented to the club by the chairman of the program committee, C. B. Presley. Another visitor who spoke was Craig Roseboro, of Paragould, a state horticulturalist who is here assisting George W. Ware in a peacan budding demonstration at the State Experiment Farm, "Arkansas," said Mr. Roseboro, "is third among all the states in the number of native peacan seedlings."

A Great New Industry

THE roadside stand, where the American motorist buys hot dogs, ice cream cones, green corn and pink balloons while he pauses in his travels, doesn't look like much of a business, perhaps; yet cold statistics show that it is becoming one of the foremost industries of the country.

Dr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce, reveals that there are now between 110,000 and 125,000 roadside stands in the United States. They are increasing at the rate of 3000 a year, and more than half of them remain open all year round.

More impressive yet, however, is the fact that these stands last year had a total sales volume of fully $500,000,000.

A half-billion-dollar turnover is not to be sneezed at. Roadside stand sales, according to Dr. Klein, exceeded the country's total exports for 1929 to Germany, or to Japan, Brazil and the Netherlands combined.

Here, then, we have a component part of our national economic system that is not ordinarily recognized as such. The automobile, which has turned American life topsy-turvy in many ways during the last couple of decades, has provided a new business of mammoth proportions here, and no one knows how much farther the thing will go.

The touring habit seems destined to grow stronger each year. Meanwhile, it is interesting to notice that Dr. Klein points out that the hotel and transportation men are not getting very much out of it. Transportation companies, he says, gain only a scant 7 per cent of the tourists' annual expenditures; hotel men do a little better, but their share is only 14 per cent. Theatres and other places of amusement, similarly, do not profit as greatly as one would expect, drawing only about 8 per cent of the tourists' money.

Evidently the tourist has created a new system of travel for himself. A decade ago the "rooms for tourists" sign on a private residence was almost unknown; now it dots the roadways from coast to coast. So it is with the refreshment booths; so, also, with the camping spaces where the tourist pitches his tent. In taking to the highway for our vacation we seem to have set in motion forces that are creating a group of new industries.

Let the Army Beware

THE gentlemen who control the United States War Department have always seemed to be extremely capable and level-headed; but the latest news from Washington makes one wonder if they have not, at last, pulled a colossal blunder.

Briefly, this is what they have done; they have called on the quartermaster general of the army to procure for a service test "one mechanical substitute for an army band."

All of which means that a mechanical apparatus built into a three-quarter-ton truck has been devised to furnish the marches, quicksteps and bugle calls heretofore provided by flesh and blood bandmen and buglers.

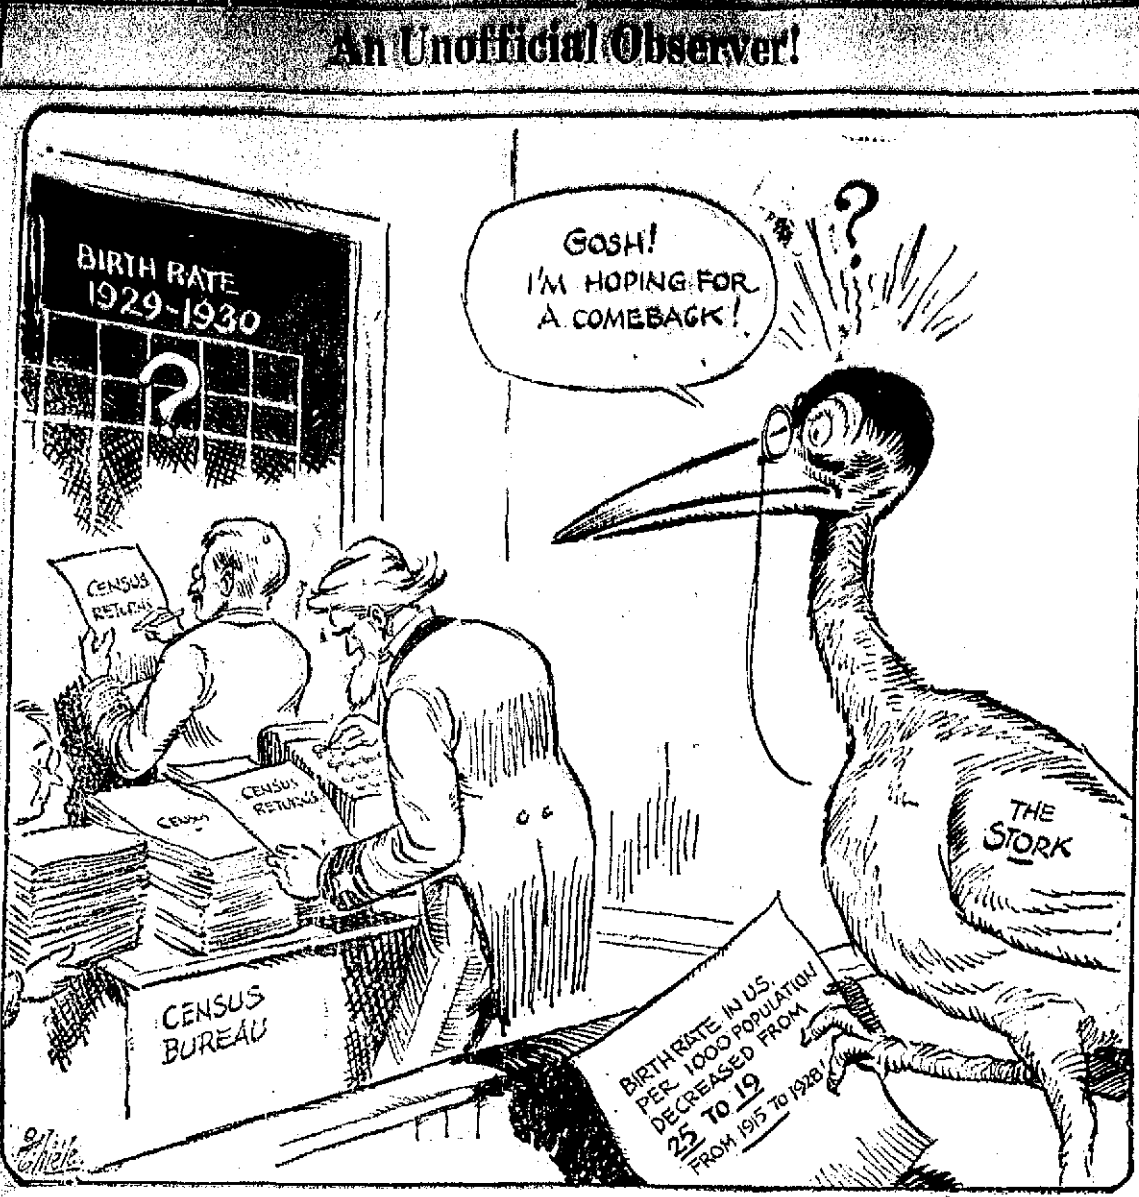

This contraption, with one doughboy sitting in the front seat to steer it and another presumably sitting beside him to turn the proper levers and other gadgets, would cruise about, supplying music for soldiers on the march, emitting bugle calls and in other ways doing the things that army bands and buglers are supposed to do.

One can only repeat that the adoption of this thing looks like a major blunder.

One of the things that keeps the army alive is the band. Close behind the band, in the matter of morale and inspiration, comes the bugler. There is a thrill in the sight and sound of a good band stepping it off across the parade ground, or marching down a city street at the head of a detachment, that no mechanical contraption in a motor truck can ever supply. The music itself, very possibly, might be just as good as ever; but who could get a thrill out of it if it came mechanically out of a tin horn atop a truck?

And the bugler! There is a picturesqueness about the sight of a bugler standing immobile, horn at lips, rapping out the keen notes that bring soldiers to their formations on the run; a color and a brightness that turn the most peaceful of men into militarists for the time being. But suppose these bugle calls hereafter are to issue from a loud-speaker on a truck; what then? Why, even the soldiers themselves will respond half-heartedly.

The whole business looks to us like a great mistake. The mechanical band might be very efficient; but the minute the army adopts it it is in for trouble. It will lose its glamour; and from that moment the end of armies will be in sight.

Mother: "Fine. My wife drove by remote control and all I had to do was feed the gas and steer the car."

Among all the candidates he is the chief exponent of good government. He is the only outstanding liberal, progressive candidate. He is the only bone-dry among the three gubernatorial candidates, having the support of the Anti-Saloon League, and his drizzling wet opponent, Phillips, is likely to take a great many wet votes away from his principal opponent, the moist Brown. His greatest strength lies in the counties outside Philadelphia and Pittsburgh and there is much apprehension in the state over the possible control of the state by the Philadelphia organization through Brown. He has unquestioned strength among the coal miners. He has considerably more newspaper support than when he won the governorship in 1922. He has substantial political support in Pittsburgh, although the main bosses there are for Brown. He has been the beneficiary of Senator Joe Grundy's attacks on the Philadelphia machine. Furthermore, he is the best slugging campaigner of the six candidates for the senatorial and gubernatorial nominations. And his political philosophy is such that he has more to bang away at than all the others combined.

Makes Lots of Speeches

Making from five to 12 speeches a day, shouting from front porches, motor trucks, courthouse steps and all other convenient objects, he has whaled away at the Morgan-Mellon interests, warned of giant public utility monopolies, flayed the Philadelphia gang, harpooned the Electric Bond & Share Co., predicted that the election of Brown would be followed by the looting of the state treasury, urged the reduction of gasoline taxes and motor fees and promised the abolition of Pennsylvania's notorious coal and iron police.

A traveling salesman found himself in a village hotel dining room when a heavy downpour of rain set in. Addressing the waitress, he remarked: "It looks like the Flood."

"Like what?" the girl required.

"Like the Flood. You've read of the Flood and how the ark landed on Mount Ararat, haven't you?"

"No, sir. I haven't seen a newspaper for three days," confessed the waitress.

Arrest of India's "Salt Rebels"

What's happening in India? This unusual picture answers the question better than words. Here you see uniformed Calcutta police, fly armed, wading waist-deep into the water to seize recalcitrant natives who were dipping up salt for manufacture in defiance of the British salt laws. Scores of native rebels have been arrested on this charge, resulting in growing civil unrest throughout India.

For darkness passes—storms shall not abide.
A little patience an dike fog is past;
After the sorrow of the ebbing tide,
The singing floods return in joy at last.
The night is long and pain weighs heavily.
But God will hold His world above despair;
Look to the East, where up the lurid sky
The morning climbs. The day shall yet be fair.—Selected.

Mrs. S. G. Norton has returned from a few days visit in Alexandria, La.

A special compliment to her house guest, Miss Alma Hiller of Memphis, Tenn., Miss Hope Bennett entertained at a most delightful bridge party yesterday afternoon at the home of her sister Mrs. Gladine Morris on West Fulton street. The pleasing color note of pink and white was used in the many details. Lovely pink and white spring flowers were used profusely in the card rooms, which were attractively arranged for three tables, with the tallies and score pads stressing the chosen color scheme. Mrs. Dale Jones won the high score trophy and the honoree was presented with a dainty gift of remembrance. Following the game, the hostess served a delicious course. Out of town guests were Mrs. Will Cox, Miss Bessie Cox and Miss Lenora Wilson of Fulton.

Much to the regret of their many friends, Mrs. C. R. Evans and Miss Mary Evans will leave tonight for La Peer, Mich., where they will join Mr. Evans in their new home.

Miss Elizabeth Brooks of Prescott and Miss Helma Brooks of Little Rock are week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Hamilton.

Mrs. M. Garreffe of Fort Smith is the house guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Lewis.

A most interesting and pleasing program was presented on yesterday morning at the Junior High school, when 8-A class, consisting of sixty boys and girls celebrated their passing into Senior High school. The program opened with the song, "America the Beautiful." The Salutatory was given by Miss Josephine Morris; the class history by Miss Phila Tharp; a piano solo by Miss Nancy White; the class prophecy by Miss Katie McDaniel; a reading by Miss Freda Mae Jones; the Valedictory was read by Miss Lora Faye Taylor, Miss Julia Lemley read the gift list. The address was given by Dr. F. A. Buddin, pastor of the First Methodist church. The class gifts to the school, two framed pictures and office fixtures, were presented by George Shipp, class president.

Mrs. N. T. Jewell was hostess yesterday afternoon to the members of the Thursday Bridge club at her home on North Hervey street. Spring flowers lent beauty and fragrance to the rooms and contract bridge was played from two tables. Mrs. C. S. Lowthorp as guest for the afternoon received a dainty gift. Following the game, the hostess served a most tempting salad and sandwich plate with tea.

Miss Phila Tharp will spend the week end visiting with Miss Mary Elizabeth Taul in Little Rock.

Weather
Fair, cooler in east and south portions tonight. Probably rain Saturday.

Kiddies Club

Just one more day, and then there's another Kiddies Club! We hope that we'll have fair weather for it—it's rained for the past three Saturdays and kept a lot of our members away, and we missed them. Let's see a big turnout tomorrow.

It won't be long before the big picnic, and have all of you been thinking about a good place near here that we can go? We want one not too far from town, but on the other hand, we don't want to have the picnic right in town, do we? So be thinking of a good spot that's big enough to hold all eight hundred of us.

And you captains that have been elected—don't forget that you're to meet with Mr. Press at 12:30 on Saturday. And all of you be there. We'll need lots of help on this affair.

The Library is having a benefit show on next Tuesday, to buy books for the children's section. If you buy a ticket for this benefit, you'll help get books for you to read, so let's all of us buy a ticket.

Ray Miller's Orchestra to Play for Dance Here

Hope Lodge of Elks announce the return of Ray Miller's Brunswick recording orchestra for the dance to be held at their home next Monday, April 26th. This orchestra which played for the last dance given by the Elks, and which was enjoyed by the dance lovers of this city and vicinity, is under the personal direction of Marshall Van Pool.

The affair is slated to begin at 9:30 o'clock, and a large crowd is expected to be on hand to welcome these musicians on their return to Hope.

This dance is given for the benefit of the Elks' building fund. The committee consists of Dr. T. L. McDonald, Exalted Ruler; Talbot Feild, chairman; O. T. Ruggles, C. E. Taylor, J. W. Strickland, Jimmie Cook, Speedy Hutson and C. B. Lawhorne.

He is only 55 and one of the youngest men ever named for the place, the sixth Pennsylvania since the court was erected 150 years ago.

To Be Dedicated

The Shrine of Fraternity, the first building of the Woodmen Circle Home for Aged Members and Orphan Children, will be dedicated at Sherman, Texas, June 25th.

The corner stone of the beautiful home for aged members and orphan children, recently completed by the Woodmen Circle at Sherman, Tex., will be laid and dedication ceremonies held June 25, 26 and 27. Extensive preparations are being made for the celebration which will be attended by hundreds of people from all parts of the country.

Main events of the program will be centered on the first day, Wednesday, June 25. The presentation and raising of the flag by the American Legion will be a sunrise ceremony. At 9 a. m. the corner stone will be laid. The dedication proper, at 10 o'clock in the morning, will be a colorful and impressive event. In the evening a public reception will be held at the home.

Among the officers active in the ceremonies will be Mrs. Mary E. LaRocca and Mrs. Dora Alexander Talley of Omaha, Nebr., national president and national secretary, respectively. Mrs. E. C. Geyer of Little Rock, manager of Northern and Southern Arkansas, will also attend.

Since the society decided to build a home, the officers' ambition has been to make it a home and not an institution. The building itself gives the impression of a real home. The rooms are sunny and comfortable. There is solarium where the old folks

Okla. Governor Appoints Colonels

Eight Arkadelphians Are On Staff of W. J. Holloway

ARKADELPHIA, May 23.—Eight Arkadelphians have been notified that they had been commissioned colonel on the staff of Gov. W. J. Holloway of Oklahoma. They are all life-long friends of the governor and most of them former classmates of his at Ouachita College. They are S. B. Earle, Fred Martin, William Brown, Hugh L. Petty, Louis H. Crow, Dr. C. K. Townsend, Tom Horne and A. J. Vestal.

In his letter to these men the governor said among other things, "I am appointing eight or 10 of my life-long friends who live in Arkansas (colonel on his staff). It might be somewhat unusual for the governor of the state to go beyond the confines of his own jurisdiction but a number of governors have thus remembered their friends of boyhood in their native states."

Governor Holloway also has written A. J. Vestal, one of his new colonels, that the other members of his military staff will come here in a body with him this week end to remain through the Ouachita College commencement and until next Tuesday. These other men, also colonels, are: R. E. Crump, president of the Baptist University at Oklahoma City; Henry Bennett, president of Oklahoma A. and M.; Prof. Roy Tompkins, head of the Department of Education at the Durant Teachers College; Vance Posey, Hugo; M. G. Orr, Durant; DeWitt Henry, Joe Miller and Percy Hammond of Hugo. All attended Ouachita College when Holloway was a student, except Posey who attended at Henderson-Brown College here.

Many, back in the health-giving sun rays. The 214-acre farm seems meant for happy homing children. Visitors to the home get the impression of a home in every sense of the word, where folks really enjoy living.

Arkansas members have given nearly $1,000 to the home fund, and quantities of miscellaneous home furnishings have been given by members of the local Grove and members in this state. According to Mrs. Ruth Matthews, of Hope, financial secretary of Popular Grove No. 196, the first building is of Georgian architecture. In the form of a Latin cross, it consists of two stories, and a high basement. It is fireproof throughout, of reinforced concrete, steel and brick. The brick is tapestry textured, of a solid terra cotta red color. White stone trimming has been used.

I received so many graduation invitations that I want to express my thanks in my weekly letter to you. I hadn't realized it was commencement time again.

All of which reminds me, the boss says that we are "graduates" in the fine art of cleaning. And we extend a standing "invitation" for you to "commence" calling Hall Bros. for modern cleaning and dyeing.

Well, folks, 'til you need me, I bid you "valedictory."

Bojo Knocks Out Cascott In Second

Preliminaries Are Good—Big Crowd In Attendance

The largest crowd of fight fans to witness a bout here this season, saw a hard-fought battle of the ink last night, when Mike Bojo and Bill Cascott were scheduled to furnish most of the entertainment for fight lovers, how- ever, the fight didn't last long enough to interest the crowd.

The preliminaries were good—all of them. A hard-fought battle was staged between Ed Davis, of Hope, and John Scott, of Prescott. These two negro fighters put on a show which was probably the hardest fought of any fight yet staged at the rink.

Gordon N. Peay Sr. Named President of State Group

TEXARKANA, May 23.—Gordon N. Peay Sr., of the Little Rock Country Club Thursday night was elected president of the Arkansas State Golf Association for 1931 at the annual business meeting which took place during a banquet. He succeeds G. R. Payne, of Texarkana.

Douglas Hotchkiss, Hot Springs, was elected vice president, and C. B. Willard, Fort Smith, re-elected for the fourth term as secretary-treasurer. Directors named were Arthur Temple, Texarkana; Harry E. Hill, Little Rock; John Trimble, El Dorado; J. M. Jordan, Pine Bluff; Ralph Menchen, Fort Smith, and Dr. R. N. Sloan, Texarkana.

Invitations for the next annual tournament were extended by the Spring Country Club, Little Rock, and the Henderson Country Club, Fort Smith. Selection of the next tournament will be delayed until the directors meet next fall.

MAX SCHMELING has not fought since last July. Ye editor also is able to announce that Jack Sharkey hasn't either. Bill Tilden has been quite successful in tennis here and there since he decided to quit the Davis Cup team. We always did think Bill was quite a player.

Primo Carnera is booked to meet Kayo Christner in Detroit the last of the month. If Primo wins, we can all say, "Good boy, Primo!" Of course, if Primo loses, it will be the other way around.

Carnera is to fight Godfrey in June in Philadelphia. Godfrey is a pretty large boxer, too, they say.

Babe Ruth doesn't seem to be hitting as many home runs this year as he used to. But then he's said to be getting $80,000 a year, so he should worry.

Jones in Golf Party
SEVERAL of our golfers have gone over to Great Britain to renew old acquaintances. Bobby Jones was one of the party. Bobby has become quite proficient at the game lately.

Dame Rumor has it that Chris Cagle is going to coach at Mississippi A. & M. this fall. Chris was a football player at West Point. Chris lives at Meyer-ville, La., and probably took the position at Mississippi A. & M. so he could run over occasionally and see the home folks.

Knute Rockne visited Notre Dame the other day and watched his football players practice. It is a relief to know that Rockne is better because we always enjoyed hearing the Notre Dame games over the radio.

Max Schmeling, the boxer from Germany, says he doesn't drink. He certainly is a stranger in a strange land. Rumor has it that Max has received several letters commending his stand.

George Simpson and Cy Leand both are claiming the title of the "fastest human." Well, each man certainly runs pretty fast, we hear.

Defeats Glenna

The jinx that has dogged Glenna Collett's footsteps in British Women's golf play cropped out again this year in the Person of Little Miss Fishwick, 19, above. Last year a veteran player, Joyce Wethered, came out of retirement to defeat Glenna and keep the title in England. This year the sprightly Miss Fishwick, playing her first major tournament, succeeded in repelling the American invader.

WILLY MOORE, whose record for the Yankees, started the season like a house afire for St. Paul . . . winning four out of his first five games . . . Willy was the most terrible hitter that ever came to the big leagues . . . Babe Ruth once bet him that he wouldn't get 3 hits all season . . . Early that year, Willy got two hits in one game at Detroit . . . but went hitless week after week thereafter . . . then the team went back to Detroit . . . Willy finally managed to send a weak roller down the third base line . . . it looked as though it was going to roll foul and the pitcher, catcher and third baseman stood watching it roll . . . and waiting . . . but it paused right on the foul line . . . which cost Babe Ruth $300.

Like Father, Like Son

DICK GLENDON coaches the Navy and Dick Glendon coaches Columbia. They are not the same man, however, one being the father, the other being the son. The older man is known as "Pop."

The Boston Red Sox traded Charley Ruffing for Cedric Durst. Cedric is a pretty name, but you don't see many ball players with it. The deal marks a renewal of trading relations between the Sox and Yanks.

Young Jack Thompson beat Jackie Fields the other night, wrestling the world's welterweight crown from the latter. Thompson's persistence in the face of two previous losses to Fields is a boost to that ancient axiom, "If at first you don't succeed—try, try again."

Thrilling Finish of Kentucky Derby

Seeking Four Golf Crowns

A campaign that may bring him four major titles has been undertaken by Bobby Jones, above, America's golfing emperor. Jones is in England now for the Walker Cup matches and before he returns he will play in the British Amateur and Open tournaments. The U. S. Amateur and Open tournaments will find Bobby on hand, too.

Athletics and Politics

A colorful ceremony in Mexico recently united in marriage the daughter of a Mexican political leader and a noted Olympic athlete. Hermine Ahumada, the groom, took part in the Paris Olympic games. His bride formerly was Senaria Maria del Carmen Vasconcelos, daughter of Jose Vasconcelos, defeated candidate for the Mexican presidency at the last election.

Cap on one ear and chewing gum, not tobacco, Babe Ruth stuck his head around the edge of the Yankee dug-out to grunt at a considerably embarrassed and slightly tongue-tied admirer, aged eight.

"Pretty good, for an old guy," responded the Babe to a polite inquiry as to how he was going. "Y'know, I got to first base the last eleven times up. That's something."

That afternoon he made it 15 times in succession before swinging vehemently at a third strike tossed by the lean Tiger southpaw recruit, Phil Page.

Ruth reached for a bottle of eyewash, doused his expensive optics and remarked to the attentive youngster: "Have to do this, kid, when I'm getting old."

With the Yankee machine in need of adjustment in a number of creaking gears, this observer found nothing visibly wrong with its $80,000 cog. The outset of the season found many a skeptic of the ancient Mr. Ruth being able to perform in more than 100 games. The Babe, off to a good start, hitting more consistently than any

Woman Artist Pitches Her Winter Camp All Alone In Wilds of Rockies

GLACIER PARK, Mont., May 22.—Lucile Van Slyke, a young woman artist of Cincinnati, Ohio, astounded the hardboiled Rocky Mountain natives by "packing in" alone, penetrating the many glacier region where she set up camp with the winter setting still upon this mountain country.

Probably they were more amazed by her laconic explanation that she same early, desiring a snow contrast with the dark waters of the lakes (when they opened).

Miss Van Slyke went into the mountain country "light," carrying beside her tent and a month's provisions, only her enamel brushes and water colors.

Superintendent J. R. Eakin of Glacier National park, when he heard of this first 1930 tourist arrival, immediately instructed his ranger on patrol in the Many Glacier country to keep watch over the intrepid young woman, and see that her food supply is replenished if needed. The ranger, with the usual gallantry of the Westerner, followed Miss Van Slyke's snowshoe tracks and, on coming up with her, was surprised to find she already had set up camp and started a cheerful fire going, with coffee nearly ready.

Miss Van Slyke expects to remain in her camp several weeks. She has elected one day's journey on snowshoes to the shores of Swift Current (formerly McDerinotti) lake where she established her camp.

"I'm leaving Saturday night," said the boarder. "Such dirty towels, a rim about the bath tub, and never any soap."

"Yes," he admitted, "but what do you think I am, a cat?"

It is noteworthy of the modern free hitting era in baseball that of the seven major league rookies who celebrated their first full seasons by collecting over 200 hits, four put their names in the "Little Red Book" in the past three years.

Lloyd Warner of the Pirates, in 1929, was the first to join the list since Joe Jackson came up with Cleveland in 1911 to hit safely 233 times and top all rookies debuts. . . . Frederick of Brooklyn, Alexander and Johnson of Detroit, all broke in with over 200 hits in 1929.

The Husband Hunter

BY RUTH DEWEY GROVES

BEGIN HERE TODAY

NATALIE CONVERSE, jealous of her husband's interest in the beautiful ALAN, seeks sympathy from his secretary, PHILIPPA, who is constantly scheming to attract Natalie's attention, and she leaves Natalie, wounded pride, prevents her from seeking a reconciliation, and Alan turns to Philippi, who plays her part so cleverly that they soon become engaged.

Natalie writes Alan, informing him of her return. Philippi, fearing of losing Alan, tells him she is obliged to leave because of trouble with her father.

Alan's meeting with Natalie, who brings her young sister, PHILIPPA, with her, leaves him hopeful, but baffled as to Natalie's intentions. Ashamed of his neglect of Philippi, he goes to her apartment the next day, and without directly asking it of him, he agrees to pay for the furnishings. Natalie asks to talk to him, and he invites himself to dinner. He goes home to dress and is about to leave when Philippi telephones. She appears distraught and hurt when he tells her he cannot take her to dinner.

After an evening of friendly but evasive talk, Natalie appears to his love for her, and Alan, torn by his knowledge of his love for her, and his entanglement with Philippi, is silent. Natalie believes that Alan loves her, and she goes, making it he may return the next evening.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXI

IT WAS not a week before Alan was back in his home.

Though there had been a short period during which he believed he never would live there again. For Philippi had flatly refused to release him from his engagement.

When he left Natalie to seek this release, he went to Philippi's apartment, and found her engaged in making it habitable with the few pieces of furniture that had been delivered that day.

He could see on her face traces of the mental storm she had been through. But he did not know that it was temporary; he thought it was pain.

But he decided to face the issue with her squarely, and now he had to go on with it, or know he was a moral coward.

She plainly showed her surprise at seeing him, and essayed a sweetly welcoming smile. He began by apologizing for calling so late.

"But I had to talk with you, Philippi," he went on "and this is better than the office."

"Oh, I couldn't have gone to sleep anyway," Philippi assured him hurriedly. She wanted to talk too, anxious to put him right if he had any wrong ideas.

Alan looked around for a place to sit.

"Take my suitcase off that chair," Philippi said, at the same time clearing another for herself.

"Have you any idea why I couldn't have dinner with you tonight, Philippi?" he asked.

She nodded, her lips moving like a hurt child's. "Natalie?" she said softly.

"Yes. I went up there," Alan answered, his voice grown suddenly husky.

Philippi waited. Alan could not tell what she was thinking.

"Philippi, this is all a ghastly mistake!" he blurted out helplessly, pleading.

Philippi stiffened in her chair. She had thrown an arm over the back of it. Now her fingers gripped it until they were white.

"It's a mistake for you to treat me like this!" she cried.

"Philippi, please . . ."

She was on her feet, facing him.

"Don't 'Philippi' me, Alan. I had enough of that at home. Tell me what you came here to say. What's a ghastly mistake?"

Alan's eyes wavered. He hated what he had to do, frankly called it rotten. But Philippi was ready for it. She did not draw back an inch. "Say it," she commanded.

"About us," he said finally.

"You mean—our engagement?" she asked with as much calmness as she could summon up.

"Yes," Alan nodded. "I never can love anyone but Natalie, Philippi."

Philippi slumped in her chair, with a heartrending moan.

Alan looked away from her. God, if being sorry would help . . .

Philippi began to sob and gasp out broken sentences at the same time.

"Why do I have to be the one to suffer? Oh, Alan, Alan, why weren't you sure? You needn't have done it! I can't stand it, oh, don't you see? I can't stand it!"

She had slipped from her chair to the floor, a huddled heap of misery that wrenched and tore at Alan's heart.

He was speechless with contrition.

Philippi raved on. "Oh, what a fool I've been. What a fool, to love you like I do. My whole life is ruined." She swayed writhingly, as though in actual physical pain.

"Philippi, for God's sake, don't," Alan entreated her.

She looked up at him. Her face was contorted, but her eyes shone dry of tears. Alan did not notice, being stricken by her startling expression. He drew back as though she had struck him a blow.

"Don't you see?" she wailed. "If you desert me now, Alan, I just can't stand it. It would be too terrible to live here alone, and I couldn't anyway. I couldn't afford it, and I'd never work for you again."

Alan opened his mouth to speak, but she rushed on, stopping him. "I couldn't go back home, either. Dad wouldn't have me, and Mother would be heart-broken."

"Stop it, Philippi, please," Alan exclaimed in desperation. "I'm not a brute. We can talk this thing out sensibly."

"Sensibly!" Philippi flamed at him. "That means that you don't care how I suffer!"

"It means nothing of the kind," Alan answered resignedly. "Please get up." He put his hands under her arms, and lifted her back to her chair.

"I'll kill myself," she sobbed, relaxing against him. "I can't lose you, Alan, I love you too much."

"But Philippi, what could we make of it after what I've told you?" he asked helplessly.

Philippi lifted her face. "Were you happy with Natalie?" she retorted hotly. Then, beseechingly: "Oh, Alan, you weren't. You know you weren't. It would just be like that again. I'd let you go if I thought you would be happy, but I know you wouldn't. Natalie couldn't have loved you, to leave you like she did. I'll make you happy. Think of the wonderful times we've had together. I know we'll be happy. And I won't, I won't, I won't let you go!"

Her voice had risen in a crescendo of emotion, her hands were flung up to his arms, pulling him down to her. "Alan, Alan, kiss me, kiss me," she begged.

Alan stooped over her, blank despair in his heart.

Alan did not go to Natalie's the next night. She did not expect him, for he sent a message to say he would not come. He offered no explanation, but he said: "God bless you," at the end of it. Over which benediction Florence uttered a knowing "Humph," when she read the telegram.

She had refrained from taking any direct action against her sister's supposed rival until after Alan's expected visit. But now that he was not coming, she went ahead and perfected her plans.

Andrew was necessary to them. She wanted him to take her to a public library. She hated to leave Natalie alone, but she already had a date with Andrew, and she was eager to get into action.

"Take an aspirin and a hot bath and go to bed," she urged her sister, when she was ready to leave the house. Natalie's pallor and quiet hopelessness worried her.

"If she would only rave and rant and break up a few pieces of furniture, I'd like it better," she said to Andrew, for she had to tell him what she intended to do, so he'd be a help and not a nuisance.

He agreed to aid her, and said: "Gee, kid, you've got a sacrifice! Nature sure enough. I see where I'm going to have it set."

Florence screwed up her lips. "Yeah?" she drawled. "Well, big

Romance of Rio Grande

Now Playing at Grand

Fox Films widely proclaimed drama, "Romance of Rio Grande," featuring Warner Baxter, Mary Duncan and Antonio Moreno, opens a two days' engagement today at the Grand Theatre.

Alfred Santell, director, has captured all the charm and stirring action contained in the novel by Katherine Fullerton Gerould, "Conquistador," from which the all-talking film version was adapted. Its conversion into a speaking drama has given him opportunity to obtain a more poignant realism and vivid character exposure.

"Romance of Rio Grande," a Fox

Movietone with music, is a story with a background of the untamed region of the cactus, the hotbed of lawlessness, feud and racial conflict. A score of lively Spanish tunes and two special songs are introduced in the picture, "Ride On, Vaquero," and the theme song, "You'll Find the answer in My Eyes," produced by gifted composers, L. Wolfe Gilman and Abel Baer.

In an actress it's Personality

in a cigarette it's Taste

IT TAKES SOMETHING MORE than good looks to hold the center of the stage—and something more than mere mildness in a cigarette to win the popularity that Chesterfield enjoys.

IT'S THE TASTE, of course—and there's a lot of difference between mildness alone and mildness with taste . . . between ordinary tobaccos and quality tobaccos . . . between ordinary blending and the Chesterfield blend.

TASTE A CHESTERFIELD!—Mildness is there, of course, but much more . . . delicate richness, fragrant aroma, and—"TASTE above everything".

We state it as our honest belief that the tobaccos used in Chesterfield cigarettes are of finer quality and hence of better taste than in any other cigarette at the price. LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

"Young Man of Manhattan" Saenger Today

Here is a great Saturday Evening Post serial, a great "best-seller" novel—and an even greater, living and breathing romance drama of the talking screen.

There is not another actress who could carry the role of the famous Ann Vaughn so feelingly as Claudette Colbert, dark-eyed, graceful heroine of "The Lady Lies" and "The Big Pond" fame. She is supported by Norman Foster as Toby, and Charles Ruggles as Shorty Ross. Foster began his Broadway stage career with Miss Colbert in the now-famous play, "The Barker." Ruggles is already a big favorite with screen fans. He established his fame as a comedian in "Gentlemen of the Press" and continued it in "Roadhouse Nights."

The picture is filled with behind-the-scenes glimpses of the world of sports—the Dempsey-Tunney fight in Philadelphia, the World's Series in St. Louis, the Six-Day Bike races in Madison Square Garden, the Princeton-Navy football game, the Yankees, Southern training camp, etc.

There are many big dramatic moments in the production—when Toby hears of Ann's blindness and realizes his own responsibility; when the two meet in the hospital; when the future

INDIANAPOLIS, May 22.—(AP)—Greater hazard, color and glamor will mark the 500-mile auto race May 30 at Indianapolis speedway.

Where 33 men dared death, on the gray-bricked, treacherous turns the last seven years, 80 will take that chance this year in pursuit of the $110,000 prize money.

Victory will be worth $40,000 this year. This includes the first place money, and side prizes. The other prizes scale downward. Two thousand dollars, at $100 per lap, will be distributed.

The riding mechanic, dramatic figure of by-gone races who was outlawed seven years ago, is back. The number of cars that may start has been raised from 33 to 40 and motors may be four times as large as they

The blow that new rule dealt may be understood when it is explained that many of the cars used last year had from four to eight carburetors on eight cylinder cars.

Another factor demanding perfect carburetion is the outlawing of the super-charger, which drove the gas into cylinder chambers.

Louie Meyer, winner in 1928 and for the last two years America's driving champion, will gamble his chances on a brand new 16-cylinder V-type racer. He ran second last year. Riding with him as the mechanic will be Alden Sampson, his financial backer, who will be going in for his first

Halt Payroll Car by Crashing Own Machine Into It

WHEELING, W. Va., May 23.—(AP)—Three bandits held up a bank cashier's automobile and obtained $10,000 here today. Money bags containing the sum were being transferred from the Citizens Bank & Trust company to a bank of J. W. Johnson, cashier of the latter institution.

The money was in two bags, one containing currency, and the other $5,000 in silver. The bandits wrecked Johnson's automobile by crashing into it with their own machine.

Two gas bombs were thrown in the cashier's car, and while Johnson and his driver were suffering from the effects, the robbers took the money, and escaped.

To Direct War On Tuberculosis

Dr. Henry Boswell, above, of Sanatorium, Miss., is the new president of the National Tuberculosis Association. Elected at the annual convention at Memphis, Dr. Boswell declared he is in favor of the establishment of tuberculosis sanatoriums by all states.

Highest Auto Road Scales Mt. Evans to Dizzy Height

DENVER, May 22.—(AP)—The highest automobile road in North America will be completed early this summer. Snow-clad nine months out of the year, Mount Evans, rising 14,200 feet above sea level, will be grooved by a modern, 18-foot highway almost to its summit.

The road will end in a mountain "saddle" just below the mass of granite blocks which mark the summit. Started ten years ago by the state highway department, the road has been constructed against what seemed at times to be overwhelming odds.

Its series of loops, curves and hairpin turns were frequently blasted out of the towering granite, and snows repeatedly hampered progress. The altitude forced workmen to go at their job gingerly, resting often to regain their breath.

The highway is a continuation of the Denver mountain parks system, and is named for John Evans, second territorial governor of Colorado.

The last 25 miles of the drive, which has a maximum grade of six percent, are continuously above a 10,000 foot altitude.
